DETAILED ACTION

This is a response to the amendment filed 9/30/2005. Claims 1-2 are under examination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Komoriya et al. (USP 4,253,163).

Figure 1 shows a sense amplifier comprising a regenerative latch (T9, T10), an input differential pair of transistors (T1, T2) coupled to the regenerative latch, a leakage device (T13) coupled to each of the transistors comprising the input differential pair of transistors, said leakage device adapted to maintain the input differential pair of transistors in an on state during a precharge phase, and wherein the regenerative latch comprises a first transistor (18), second transistor (T5) and a third transistor (T6) and a clock signal node (18) as called for in claims 1-2.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Branson et al. (USP 5,508,644) in view of Kanamori et al. (US 2002/0171453).

Art Unit: 2816

Figure 1 of Branson et al. shows a sense amplifier comprising a regenerative latch (12, 14, 16, 18), an input differential pair of transistors (20, 22) coupled to the regenerative latch, a leakage device (26) coupled to each of the transistors comprising the input differential pair of transistors, said leakage device adapted to maintain the input differential pair of transistors in an on state during a precharge phase, and wherein the regenerative latch comprises a second transistor (34) and a third transistor (36) and a clock signal node (LE).

Branson et al. does not show a third transistor coupled in between the input differential transistor as called for in claims 1-2. Kanamori et al. show a sense amplifier including a transistor coupled in between of the differential input transistors to maintain an equal potential between the differential transistors thus minimizing erroneous operation. Therefore, it would have been obvious to person skilled in the art at the time the invention was made to include a transistor in between the differential input transistors (20, 22) of Branson et al. for the purpose of maintaining an equal potential between the differential transistors thus minimizing erroneous operation.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
